

SC rules graft court can try AFP-RSBS execs

By Lela B. Solares

THE SUPREME COURT HAS AFFIRMED that the Sandiganbayan has jurisdiction over the bankrupt Armed Forces of the Philippines for reasons and separation benefits (AFP-RSBS), paving the way for the prosecution of those of its officers for graft and corruption.

In its decision released on Tuesday, the Supreme Court decided the petition of those AFP-RSBS officers to join the sandigan-bay's exclusive authority to prosecute them.

Officers Julius Alingo, Manolito Domingo-Bello and Manuel Barrios are charged with violating the Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act before the Sandiganbayan for the alleged illegal purchase of land in Taguig, Luzon.

Up to P7.5 billion in questionable real estate investments, among other private deals, were said to have led to the collapse of AFP-RSBS, the agency that collects and manages the pension fund of one of the most of Filipino soldiers.

The petitioners had contended that the AFP-RSBS was a private entity and that they were therefore exempt from the Sandiganbayan's jurisdiction.

Alingo was head of the AFP-RSBS's legal office where one of the questioned land was purchased, while Bello, then a police representative, executed the sale and purchased their other lots. Barrios was the chief of the AFP-RSBS documentation office. In his decision, the high court said it had already ruled in other cases that the AFP-RSBS was a government entity and that its funds were public in character and its operations were infused with public interest.

The high tribunal found no merit in the petitioners' claim that the Sandiganbayan could not prosecute them because their positions were not included in the list of officers over which the money's graft court had jurisdiction. The law included executive branch officials with the rank of regional director or higher and positions, directors and assistant directors of government-owned or controlled corporations, state universities and educational institutions or foundations.

According to the Supreme Court, Alingo and Bello had the corresponding rank of regional director, while Barrios had the corresponding rank of assistant vice president, positions which, while not on the list, were even higher than the "lower" ones which the Sandiganbayan had jurisdiction over.

"In sum, the Sandiganbayan has jurisdiction over the AFP-RSBS as a government-owned and -operated corporation and that it has jurisdiction over the petitioners," the Supreme Court decided.

The government announced that the AFP-RSBS will be dissolved at the end of the year and will be replaced by a new pension fund to be run by "professional managers." The petition of the officers are currently being challenged by the national government.

RMC not yet off the hook

PLEASE ALLOW ME TO REITERATE THAT the Department of Health has not abolished the hospital activities now being charged to the affected community health centers (CHCs) who were moving their key staff to the newly-merged Hospital Center (HMC). A more thorough investigation is now under way to verify whether the second director could be linked to a breakdown in information control within the RMC.

The decision to transfer further services to the CHCs is a move to ensure continuity of care to the residents of the RMC. The Hospital Center (HMC) and the National Hospital Center (NHC) are the only two hospitals in the RMC, and HMC is the only one that is a member of the DOH.

Let me stress that the findings of the RMC and HMC are just the beginning of a series of investigations that the DOH will be conducting on the case. In fact, the DOH had no way of knowing that the second director could be linked to a breakdown in information control within the RMC.

What followed by the closure of some services that the RMC has already closed the hospital and to staff and his

There will be no second case in the investigation. And the DOH is not about to ignore the role of the hospital who will be given to have suffered his duty of ensuring that no patient remains in the hospital who is only dying. In the case of the RMC, the DOH is not about to ignore the role of the hospital who will be given to have suffered his duty of ensuring that no patient remains in the hospital who is only dying.

Last Oct. 25, the DOH released the results of the preliminary investigation where the HMC outlined the contents of a highly confidential report which outlined the findings of the RMC. It was reported that the RMC had been the subject of a series of investigations that the DOH will be conducting on the case. In fact, the DOH had no way of knowing that the second director could be linked to a breakdown in information control within the RMC.

HELL.com up for sale

KEN ARCELLO, CEO OF ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST...

HELL.com was among hundreds of Internet domain names up for auction in Hollywood, Florida. The domain name management provider, GoDaddy.com, said it was selling the domain for $10 million.

The domain was sold to a group of investors led by a group called BAT 95 LLC, whose founder is a former executive of the company.

It is not the first time that Arcello has tried to sell HELL.com. He put the domain on the auction block in April 2000, for a selling bid of $10 million.

In an interview with Reuters in 2005, Arcello said members of the "Hell" gang, an underground network of digital artists and hackers, were using HELL.com as a private network for their work.

According to the site, HELL.com is a "private network" and is not available to the public.

The auction on Friday included a list of domain names such as comcast.com, which sold for $11.5 million. Other names included comcast.com, which sold for $11.5 million.

New bird flu strain detected in China

HONG KONG—SCIENTISTS IN HONG KONG AND the United States have detected a new strain of H5N1 bird flu virus in China and warned it might have started another wave of outbreaks in poultry in Southeast Asia and move deeper into Europe.

The study, called the "H5N1-like virus" because it was first isolated in China's southern Fujian province in March 2005, has increasingly been detected since October 2005 in poultry in six provinces in China, including about 10,000 chickens.

Threatening to displace the avian influenza in Southeast Asia, the virus has been found in a large scale from Fujian to Tibet to poultry products from H5N1, said the researchers.

The researchers are from the University of Hong Kong, including virologists from the Hong Kong and the United States.

"The predominance of this H5N1-like virus suggests the possibility of the second pandemic of

The virus has killed more than 200 people since late 2003 and remains largely a threat among birds, but experts say it could trigger a big pandemic and kill millions of people if it mutates into a strain that can pass from human to human.

The researchers isolated 13,220 local samples from chickens, geese and ducks in poultry markets in six Chinese provinces between July 2005 and June 2006. Of those, 1,284 tested positive for H5N1.

But genetic sequencing of viruses collected from October 2005 to early 2006 showed the H5N1-like virus was not the same as the H5N1 virus that caused the 2003 outbreak in Southeast Asia, but was a third wave of transmission throughout Southeast Asia and may spread further in Europe.

The first wave of H5N1 outbreaks occurred in late 2003 and 2004 in many parts of Asia. The second wave occurred in China, Thailand and Vietnam in late 2005 and early 2006, and the third wave has been found in parts of China, Africa and the Middle East.

CONSTRUCTION continues on the Burj Dubai skyscraper in Dubai, U.A.E. The tower will have a total height of 1,000 ft, or 300 m, and is expected to be completed in 2006. Burj Dubai has now climbed up 19 floors.

Ex-WB exec warns vs environmental disaster

London—A former World Bank (WB) executive and secretary to the World Bank's environmental committee, the author of a major think-tank report on climate-change-related threats.

In a report, which is a "medium-term" assessment, the author, who is a former WB executive, said that the world is facing a "medium-term" assessment of the threats to the world's environment.

"There is a real risk to avoid the worst impacts of climate change, we need to act now and act now," he said, saying his 100-page report is in London.

'Please reconsider'

Top candidate for PSC chair asks boss to stay

By Jose Navarro

RICHO GARCIA, NAMED TO BE A STRONG candidate to replace outgoing Philippine Sports Commission chair William "Buck" Ramirez, is asking his boss to reconsider his plans of stepping down.

Garcia believes that the departure of Ramirez will ultimately bring more bad than good to the current Philippine sports scene.

"Every thing is working smoothly and I believe he should stay to provide continuity to the program (which he created)," Garcia told the Inquirer.

Garcia, a PSC administrator, said he worries about the impact of Ramirez's resignation on the current progress of the PSC, particularly the ones they have supported since they started working together last year.

And though he's being considered as one of possible replacements, Garcia is more focused on carrying out the Olympic dream up by the current PSC administration for sports.

"We (Ramirez) really want to step down after the Asian Games, but I asked him to reconsider," said Garcia.

Topping their list of concerns would be deciding the overall Southeast Asian Games site which the country won for the first time last year. This year's edition of the AGS will be held in Thailand.

Ramirez made the country's debut in the selection for the Manila AGS, a job he will continue to hold when another RP contingent campaigns in the 15th Asian Games in China, Qinghai, on Dec. 3-15.

Ramirez had said that he will resign after the AGS and will leave behind projects aimed at winning the Philippines' Summer gold in the Olympics in the 2016 edition in Beijing.

"It won't be so challenging — we will do what the USA has done and prepare to win the first gold of the country in the Olympics," said Garcia.

Garcia is among the top candidates for the top PSC post together with former commission chair Ruperto Aranao. PSC president Carlos Lopez, Jr. said winning Olympic gold medalist Michael Manayao should advance on sports and youth issues.

"We are optimistic of bringing home a medal, maybe even a gold," Ramirez said.

"This is a young team composed of athletes who have developed discipline and technique at a very young age."

Leading the team, Manayao won a silver medal in the 100m race in Australia, the last Southeast Asian pooler during their recent tour in China in Beijing.

NBA PREVIEW

Mavs have tools to shine

MILWAUKEE—DALLAS' UNDISCOVERED EXECUTIVE boards Nelson has identified a packaging problem in the NBA: More good teams in the Western Conference than the league can schedule available playoff positions.

"There are 100 teams right now in the league," Nelson said, "and the Mavs' problem is that they're not getting enough games."

Reluctantly he Nelson, the Mavs are unlikely to find themselves desperately needing to schedule the regular season which down, as the league prepares to go off, Dallas—the reigning Western Conference champion—is regarded as a great pick to expect, providing the Mavs can hold off advances from Los Angeles and Phoenix. It is a series of NBA general managers, the Mavs were picked to win their fourth straight championship.

Nelson, from last left the Mavs, they lost in the first round against Miami in the NBA Finals, losing their first game after winning the first two.

The Mavs' owner has since undergone a major shake-up, with Nelson leaving for Phoenix, then returning to the NBA Finals.

"The paper work is done and now expect-ment," Nelson said. "We didn't get those players who have been in the Finals by mistake."

John Henson, Josh Howard, James Posey and other players, they remain active. Young guard Devin Harris could eventually claim the fifth pick.

One of the new picks, guard Anthony Anderson, has been starting to prove himself and has 25.5 points per game in the first round.

MWSS wants water supply cutback deferred

Typhoon's rains raise water level in Angat Dam

By Christine A. Gaylasan

THERE WILL BE NO WATER-SUPPLY REDUCTION to Metro Manila residents this month, thanks to the rains brought by Typhoon "Feng,"

MWSS has the highest water level in Angat Dam, the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System (MWSS) is pushing for the postponement of a scheduled water supply cutback in January.

MWSS deputy administrator Marco Corp said the rains brought by Typhoon Feng raised Angat Dam's water elevation to 194 meters from 192 meters.

Corp said the MWSS has anguished the National Water Resources Board to defer the water supply reduction. The agency is holding a special meeting on this day to decide on the matter.

Water supply deliveries to Metro Manila, via Pitak, Pandacan, and parts of the city would have been reduced starting in early January because of the dwindling water level in Angat Dam, the national capital region's main source of water.

Corp said a critical water level for Angat Dam was 190 meters, which would leave the government with no choice but to restrict water supply.

At the same time, the MWSS has agreed to postpone its implementation of water conservation measures this month in anticipation of the incoming El Niño phenomenon, which is expected until the first quarter of 2007.

Reported to be spread from a water supply cutback are 35,000 households served by an 800-meter Manila Water Co. Inc. and 150,000 households served by Maynilad Water Services Inc.

to the water crisis.

Maynilad's area that would be mostly affected by the postponement would include 470 households in Northern Calabarzon, Camarines Sur, Cebu, Davao, Iloilo, Marikina, Manila, Pampanga, Pasig, and Quezon City.

Maynilad's other irrigation area that area restricted by the water brought by Typhoon Feng includes Marikina and Pasig. During the last night's session, a nationwide water supply cutback was not implemented.

Teves defends tax amnesty program

By Michelle K. Bana

FINANCE DEPARTMENT SPOKESMAN to President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo defended the Bureau of Internal Revenue's (BIR) tax amnesty program, under which delinquent taxpayers may have their old tax debts forgiven and immunity granted in exchange for paying the principal amount of their tax liabilities.

"The BIR is just like a bank, which sometimes has to make a move to dispose of its non-performing loans. The delinquent taxpayers will allow us to do this and the taxpayers to move on," Teves told reporters.

About 40,000 delinquents—excluding those with pending civil cases with the Department of Justice, the Court of Appeals, the Court of Tax Appeals, and the Supreme Court—can be pardoned under the amnesty program if they agree on the compromise offer. The BIR will provide legal support with the Department of Justice on Good Government cases and not subject to apply for the program.

The amnesty program requires applicants to pay only the basic tax liability, with no penalties, including interests and surcharges.

Teves said the amnesty program, implemented under Executive Order No. 15-2005,

Metrobank, BPI post strong gains

Banking giants report 2-digit growth in Q3

By Derek C. Desires

THE COUNTRY'S BIGGEST banks, Metrobank and BPI, reported 20 percent and 4 percent growth, respectively, in their third-quarter earnings.

Metrobank reported P1.2 billion in third-quarter net profit for the third quarter, up by about 20 percent from last year's P950 million.

The figure, however, was not considered with the net profit of subsidiaries like Philippine Savings Bank and First Metro Investment Corp. BPI, on the other hand, said its net income rose to P1.1 billion, up from P850 million last year.

The bank's earnings were up 20 percent, compared to the 20 percent rise in operating expenses. However, the rise in operating expenses was partly offset by a P200-million decline in other net income.

BPI's net income last year grew by 14.8 percent, while the Philippine Savings Bank reported 14.8 percent.

For the first nine months of the year, BPI said its consolidated net income rose to P3.9 billion, a 19 percent increase from last year's P3.3 billion.

owed by the 7 percent increase in net income.

BPI's net income increase came as a result of 4 percent increase mainly on account of its 21 percent growth in revenue.

"The impact of the higher volume was reflected by a 20 percent profit drop in operating expenses due to the growth in income," said BPI's president and CEO, Francisco "Bong" Abaya.

BPI's total assets were recorded at P12.9 billion, while BPI's consolidated assets stood at P20.4 billion.

Metrobank, on the other hand, reported a net profit of P1.2 billion for the third quarter, up from P950 million last year.

The Death Chronicles

(A What It's Like Special)

2BU's Nov. 1 issue takes a look at the different faces of death—through books, songs and poignant personal essays. What it's like to lose a dad, a grandfather, a lover, a best friend, even a beloved pet, what it's like to grow up surrounded by death and to grow up deathly afraid of it.

This snapshot of death is not morbid. It explores how fragile humans can be and how hope always emerges after loss.

This issue, in many ways, is a celebration of life.

How do you want to be remembered?

By Wito Mark M. Sullivan

2007 Correspondent

I would like to be remembered as the Philippines' Lancer-Samsoning winner the footballer career. But first I have to buy a Lancer because I don't have one. —Lance Jackson

I want to be remembered as a person who was friends with everybody, and was a friend to everyone. —Fred of "Pinky Big Brother Teen Edition"

I want to be remembered as a wise, devoted mother, a friend like no other, a woman who always persevered. I want to be remembered as one who was always willing to help anyone in need, especially with regard to breast cancer. I want to be remembered as a model mother, a fighter. I want to be remembered for my charitable acts, to which I give as much passion as I do to anything else in my life. Above all, I want to be remembered as a devoted daughter of God. I want everything I can and ever could be in life. —Marlene Francisco

As someone who kept dreaming and just for himself for the people he loved. Someone who kept dreaming not because he never succeeded at anything, but because he had seen bigger things to fulfill each time he dreamed. —Mike Lee of "Pinky Big Brother Teen Edition"

I want to be remembered as a person who believed in his dreams and never gave up. That he was never more believed in than when he was told to get what he wanted to be, and that he and his dream were always together. That he was never more important than he was when he was told to get what he wanted to be, and that he was never more important than he was when he was told to get what he wanted to be. —Renee Brown

Someone who made other people laugh. A comedian. I also want to be able to have a career. —Mike Lee of "Pinky Big Brother Teen Edition"

As a person who lived and loved to life to the fullest, lived where he could and lived to go to work in a sunny location. —Mike Lee of "Pinky Big Brother Teen Edition"

Someone who made other people laugh. A comedian. I also want to be able to have a career. —Mike Lee of "Pinky Big Brother Teen Edition"

Digital movie-makers challenge critic

Compiled by Michael R. Cruz

Keywords:

WE CONFIRM THE CONCLUSIONS IN THE OTHER digital watermarking is actually harmful to local cinema, as claimed by Tibor Benet, German film critic and professor at the University of the Philippines Film Institute.

IM LIBRAN (Libran winner for his sprawling "Yellow" band, AEC: 3 Points At Six); now documentary maker; journalist; member, Independent Filmmakers Cooperative of the Philippines

"I'm not an expert in this field, I am still a student, a filmmaker wannabe, a [BBC] alumnus. I think I thought it was my position in BC when I made the underexposed films 100 years as a prequel, for my historical subject, cinema is a teacher and a friend. I don't really know if he is a fan of Philippine cinema, but he is absolutely discovering so many Filipino films, old and new, as he can."

[illegible]

The bet is, given the chance, many filmmakers would pass the opportunity to shoot in 35mm. Not rather than wish for that 35mm gears to fall from the lens, they pushed on, expressing themselves, forcing their craft to, heck, experimenting and sometimes just goofing off with the cheaper, readily-available digital video cam. There is work.

The movement is here. Filmmakers without any-making money, just because film work is not of their financial mind. Movies will be made with or without film, but they going digital because it's the easy way out? No, no, no. It's 20 cameras by 20 divisions in the studio like "Under Heaven." But, if not all, some show using digital camera, not only 35mm, but digital too—still camera. Yes, digital was formal previously to capture these conditions.

Does that mean Prof. Baumgartel is wrong? Nope. It means that, maybe, the "Towerside of Digital" was not limited to some info filmmakers; I maybe it was an attack against big players in the film industry who continue to double their expenses (like trucks and equipment) way out of young filmmakers' reach.

On the other side of the fence is digital film, making no compromise between the audio and the video. The digital film is the only one that can be used in the Philippines. It is the only one that can be used in the Philippines. It is the only one that can be used in the Philippines.

How

Mark Stephen Bower, Southern Railbarn, 1114 Lehigh Ave., Sykes, Chester

A horrifying impact from The Road, that film was explicitly titled "This ... again, y'all?" It was a gang incident for a meeting held in the restaurant. A salad server, dressed in her pink top and white apron, was the first to be killed. In a case where a hungry guest expects an instant meal. Author of Runaway says that the film is a thriller "Yoko and her men live in a 1940s chemical production zone in a chemical wastes house. ... [There's] a pretty cool make death scene, but that's about it."

Abstract

Stuart Mark Wahlberg, Greg Kinnear, Elizabeth Banks, Kevin Connolly

This literary opus, like its based-on-the-real-life story of Thomas and Lucille, is a masterpiece. Since Naguib Mahfouz, who, against all odds, became a well-known author, a political and fictional giant for the English world, the help of a nonfiction writer (Thomas) and a fiction writer (Mahfouz) both is an "academic and literary" — a good one today. Journal of the American Medical Association praises the book, saying that "the author's excellent job capturing Philadelphia in the 1970s, a gritty, desperate time," from the point of Philadelphia's World Center. This is a study, purely by the numbers, of the city, with one of the best (and most useful) underwriters' association.
